

CASE/UAW says that the bargaining committee will consist entirely of Cornell grad students.

That's what the grad students at UCSB also believed....

Only after the election did they realize how little say they had in "their" union!<sup>(1)</sup>

AtWhatCost.org

(1)...less than five months after being seated, the elected UCSB negotiating team resigned, protesting that they did not have a voice in their union. This means that although graduate student employees at UCSB must ratify the final terms of employment, representatives from the United Auto Workers (UAW) will negotiate those terms without them. (United Student Labor at UCSB)